NEW NOVEL.

Two Daughters of One Race.

By W. HEIMBURG. Translated by Mrs. D. M. Lowrey. With exquisite photogravure illustrations.

1 vol., 12mo, $1.25; paper, 75 cents

An exceedingly fine and brilliant novel of German high life, characterized by the literary skill this author possesses in such an eminent degree. It is a romantic tale of love, passion, and marriage. The latter, however, is looked upon by the relatives of the noble husband as a mesalliance and entails suffering and trials. By the death of the elder brother during the Franco-German war the husband becomes a reigning prince, and state reasons compel him to seek a divorce.

SWINBURNE'S NEW BOOK.

POEMS AND BALLADS—Third Series. By ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

"The lover of Swinburne will find here the Swinburne of his love. He will find the same orchestral crash of words, the same virility, the same power and ecstasy, the same command over the unsuspected resources of our language; he will recognize the familiar metrical tricks—assonance, alliteration, the use of the repetend—all the familiar adjectives, the familiar imagery, which, in spite of imitators, still possess their old-time witchery in the hands of the master, for none save he can mingle them into bewildering harmony."—New York Herald.

NEW EDITION OF

SWINBURNE'S POEMS AND BALLADS. First, Second, and Third Series. 3 vols., 12mo, $4.50

A CENTENNIAL SOUVENIR.

STEEL PORTRAITS OF OUR PRESIDENTS. From Washington to Harrison.

Twenty-three India proofs. In handsome portfolio. Size, 8 x 11½. $3.50.

A portrait gallery of our chief magistrates that possesses great value. Heretofore it was a costly undertaking to collect the portraits of all the Presidents, but now they are placed within the reach of all Americans.

EDITION DE LUXE OF

A TREASURY OF ENGLISH SONNETS. Edited from the original sources, with notes, by DAVID M. MAIN. Illustrated with steel portraits. 1 vol., royal 8vo, 11½ x 7½ x 2. 470 pages. $7.50.

This renowned and now acknowledged to be the choicest and standard selection of English sonnets has been out of print for some time. But as the publishers recognized a demand for an exceptionally handsome edition, equal to the English large-paper copies which readily have sold for $30.00 each, they have endeavored, and now believe that they have succeeded in producing a volume superior to the work of any of the famous English printers. It is a superb book, printed from large type on laid paper of the best quality, cloth bound, with leaves uncut. The price has been made so low as is consistent with first-class workmanship.

CENTENNIAL EDITION OF

OUR PRESIDENTS; or, The Lives of the Twenty-three Presidents of the United States. By VIRGINIA E. TOWNSEND. Illustrated with twenty-three finely engraved steel portraits. 1 vol., 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

This volume is now looked upon by the foremost literary critics of our country as a sterling piece of literature, and destined to remain the standard work on the subject.

GERTRUDE'S MARRIAGE. By W. HEIMBURG. With photogravure illustrations. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper covers in colors, 75 cents.

Prentiss' "Stepping Heavenward;" "The Imitation of Christ," by Thomas Kempis, set forth in rhythmic sentences, according to the original intention of the author; and "How They Kept the Faith," a tale of the Huguenots in Languedoc, by Grace Raymond.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish next week "The Ice Age in North America, and its bearings upon the antiquity of man," by G. Merriam, and "Up and Down the Brooks," by Mary A. Bamford. They will publish, in connection with Bickers & Son, of London, an édition de luxe of Swift's works in nineteen volumes, octavo. Only 250 copies will be placed on the American market. The reprint is after Sir Walter Scott's second edition.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 15th Robert Louis Stevenson's new story, written in collaboration with his stepson, Lloyd Osbourne. It is entitled "The Wrong Box," and is said to be entirely outside the lines along which Mr. Stevenson's genius for story-telling has manifested itself, and will illustrate afresh his extraordinary versatility in the field of letters. The story has a most amusing and exciting plot, dealing mainly with the astonishing and funny adventures of a young man in his attempts to secure the fruits of a Tontine life insurance policy. Some of the characters are important literary creations. The coöperation of Mr. Osbourne will enable the Scribners to protect the book by copyright.

Begins with a description of life among the almost savage inhabitants of the portion of England bordering on Wales where mining is the chief industry. An accident occurs by which a carriage is overturned and a gentleman, travelling with his daughter and his business associate, is killed. Some diamonds are picked up by Joyce, the young savage, who, through them, finds her history involved with those far above her in wealth and station. The plot is deep and much involved. John Herring is an idealist doing his duty amid great difficulty. The comparisons between French and English ideas are ably written.

This great work, adapted from the English "Imperial dictionary" to American needs, has been gradually extended far beyond the original limits. About 200,000 words are included in its definitions, a very large addition to the vocabulary of preceding dictionaries. Its plan includes three things: the construction of a general dictionary of the English language which shall be serviceable for every literary and practical use; a more complete collection of the technical terms of the various sciences, arts, trades, and professions than has yet been attempted; and the addition to the definitions proper of such related encyclopedic matter, with pictorial illustrations, as shall constitute a convenient book of general reference. The paper, typography, and press-work are all worthy of this valuable work. It will be delivered in "sections" or parts (24) at the rate of one a month, and afterwards bound in 6 v.

Devil (The) and I. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham, 1889. c. 322 p. D. pap., 50 c.

The "Devil" is the heroine's half-brother, who persecutes her through three hundred ultra-sensational pages. The heroine is a hypnotic somnambulist, and the "Devil" has complete power over her. Most complicated relationships, birthmarks, mad-house scenes, mistaken identities, etc., make up a story which is wild enough to be a parody on the class of literature it represents.

Douglas, Mark, (pseud.) Can love sin? Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., 1889. c. 20-468 p. D. cl., $1.50.

An American novel, the scene being laid chiefly in Portland, Oregon, and in Washington, D. C. The hero, Paul Denton, is U. S. The publishers have begun under the title of "Riverside library for young people" a series of books designed especially for boys and girls who are laying the foundation of private libraries. The books to be included in the series will not be ephemeral publications, to be read hastily and quickly forgotten; both the authors and the subjects treated promise that they will be books to last. The great subjects of history, biography, mechanics, travel, natural history, adventure, and kindred themes will form the principal portion of the library, but occasionally a story of special excellence will be added.

Gissing, G. The nether world: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1889. 379 p. D. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 646.) pap., 45 c.

The story takes place among the London poor. The grim poverty and the many misfortunes of the Hewett family are described without a gleam of humor to soften the picture. The elder girl, Clara, attempts to be an actress, and arouses the jealousy of another woman, who throws vitriol in her face. The brother, "Bob," is a forger, and the father a drunkard. There is another family who figures in the story and who has shamefully ill-treated a little girl, Jane Snowdon, whose grandfather turns out to be a rich man. Jane is the principal heroine, but even her lot has few alleviations, although she is sweet and good.

Kemble, Mrs. Frances Anne. Far away and long ago. N. Y., H. Holt & Co., 1889. c. 3+260 p. S. (Leisure hour ser., no. 225.) cl., $1. It is many years now since Mrs. Kemble told of her triumphs on the stage in "Records of a Girlhood" and "Records of a later life." In her old age she gives us a novel of the beautiful hills of Berkshire, where she has been spending her declining days. Many pages are covered with glowing descriptions of the scenery of this romantic region. The tale itself has but a slight plot. It is of "long ago" and strongly imbued with the puritanical spirit of the time. It ends quite tragically.

Mitchell, S. Weir, M.D. The cup of youth, and other poems. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1889. c. 4+76 p. O. hf. cl., $1.50.

The Boston Beacon speaks of these poems as "instinct with passion, definite in motive, dealing with great ideas, inculcating often vast moral truths, and inspiring the fancy with some vivid revelation of the possibilities of our common manhood. 'The cup of youth' is a drama of concentrated interest in which Galileo appears as the protagonist. His friend Uberto has solved the problem of perpetual youth, and has the cup in readiness to drink, thinking to cast off his faithful wife, Emilia, and renew love's delirious dream with some one fairer and far younger than she. . . . The other poems in this volume include 'The violin,' a duet of love and ambition; 'My châteaux in Spain;' 'The tombs of the regicides;' 'Cervantes,' a discriminating tribute to the author of 'Don Quixote;' two or three sea pieces; and 'Minerva medica,' read at the fiftieth anniversary of the doctorate of the late Hayes Agnew."

Montefiore, Arthur. Henry M. Stanley, the African explorer. N. Y. and Chic., Fleming H. Revell, 1889. 160 p. por. and il. D. cl., 75 c.

The well-known facts of many volumes, chiefly Stanley's own books, are briefly given in this enthusiastic sketch of the "Columbus of Central Africa." Beginning with the hero's birth in 1840, as John Rowlands, in his far-off Welsh home, his life is followed to New Orleans, where he became Henry Morton Stanley by the favor and adoption of a rich merchant, and the details of his subsequent life are supplied. Much can be learned of the geography, topography, manners, customs, etc., of Africa; the meeting with Livingstone is given in detail. The question of Stanley's present whereabouts is not settled. The account goes to February, 1889.

- On the exact spot where a murder has just been committed in Union Square, New York City, a diamond button is picked up. Tracing the owner of this button leads to much conflicting evidence. The young lawyer, Holbrook, and the reporter, Bryan, prove themselves brilliant logicians in sifting this evidence. A very slight thread of romance runs through this quite exciting detective story.

- The splendid egotist is a talented, lazy, selfish, sculptor, who had early married the daughter of his teacher, herself a painter. She is a fine character, who, hoping to spur him on to work, decides upon a peculiar plan. It has some unexpected consequences which touch the lives of several well-drawn characters. A statue of the heroine, the great work of the hero, plays a conspicuous part in the story.
- Warden, Florence, [pseud. for Florence Alice Price, now Mrs. G. E. James.] The fog princes. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1889.] 214 p. S. (Lovell's international ser., no. 18.) pap., 30 c.
- One of the three daughters of a rich, dissolute English earl decides to write the family history. She soon suspects the librarian of withholding important papers. - The author appears to be a believer in the Darwinian theory, as his hero "Zit" belongs to a family of apes. He is hairless and tailless, and stands erect on two feet, instead of crawling on four. For all these odd characteristics he is despised by his family and finally cast out into the world. After many wanderings he meets "Xoe," a beautiful woman, who talks and who learns him to talk, to build a house, to kill the game, and other lessons towards civilization. The life of this couple upon the uninhabited globe is both instructive and entertaining.

PARASITES OF THE BOOK-TRADE.

SINCE we published, some weeks ago, the exposé of Mr. J. L. Thurston's generous and general offer, at a salary of $125 per month "or more," of a "General Manager position" in "a publishing company of which Mr. Appleton is President," we have accumulated a number of similar circulars and proposals in written, type-written, or printed letters which show a singular likeness with each other. One of these is "The Buyers' Union" with which Mr. E. T. Loomis was connected and which has received much gratuitous advertising in the daily press since Mr. Loomis' incarceration in the Tombs. Its circular was very ingeniously concocted and was adorned with the elaborate illustrations of the composing-room, press-room, bindery, etc., intended to impress the distant observer with the enormous business it was doing or proposing to do. Another circular proceeds from the "Consolidated Buyers' Jobbing Co.," which is possibly Mr. J. L. Thurston's organization, since the name of Mr. Nathan Appleton, "President of Boston Board of Trade and Commissioner of Panama Canal Co.," is given as President. This name will be recognized as that of a gentleman connected with the well-known Boston family of that name, a brother of Mr. Thos. G. Appleton, who has an unfortunate habit of lending an honored name freely to various schemes not always of the highest credit. He is not one of the Appletons of the publishing house. Another affair of a similar character is the "Century Book and Paper Co." of Chicago, which also has made generous offers of the "local business management" of its affairs to any number of gentlemen in various cities, who were expected to return a deposit for the privilege of representing the company at a large salary. The officers of this company, Frank L. Loomis, Howard G. Loomis, and Edwin S. Jewell, have been indicted by the Chicago Grand Jury for conspiracy to defraud. How many more concerns of this kind there may be through the country, or whether these all are really various noms de guerre of the same sharpers, it is difficult to say. Curiously, several of them have happened on the same list of names to whom to send their similar offers, and so have opened the eyes of a good many would-be victims.

All these concerns, it will be noted, purport to be connected with the book-trade, which seems to be a peculiarly desirable field for this sort of quackery and fraud. There are a good many so-called "library associations" which are not frauds, but which in their prospectuses, etc., come close to the border line which separates them from the kind of concerns above mentioned. In other words, they more or less deceive the public, or induce the public to deceive itself, by the statements which they make about book profits and the outrages committed upon the bookbuying public by the book-trade proper. This is another of the evils due in a measure to the misleading discount system with which the trade is cursed.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL WANAMAKER has done a most excellent thing in his appointment of a commission to investigate the condition and needs of the New York Post-Office, made up of experts connected with the Department at Washington and instructed in a categorical series of specific questions signed by him to look thoroughly into the business condition and needs of the metropolitan office. As the New York office is not only the largest one in the country, but that through which by far the largest proportion of publications is mailed, it is most important to the publishing and book trade that it should be administered at its best. Mr. Pearson, as stated in Mr. Wanamaker's letter of instructions, had long been urging the Department and Congress to give more adequate supply both of men and money to the metropolitan office, but there has been a chronic jealousy between the Department at Washington and the big Post-Office here, which was not mollified by the peculiar political conditions during both the Republican and Democratic administrations under which Mr. Pearson served. The present commission, coming from Washington and thoroughly familiar with postal methods, ought to be able to reach an accurate judgment as to what are the actual needs in New York, and every improvement here ought to be reflected in Post-Office administration throughout the country. Behind all questions of administrative methods is, however, the question of the law under which all branches of the Post-Office are administered, and the present law is most contradictory and confusing, and, in many respects, altogether bad. It is sufficient to mention again the anomaly that periodicals other than weeklies can be sent across the street through the mails in New York only when actually stamped at the rate of one cent for two ounces, or eight cents a pound, while a weekly paper is delivered at bulk rates, or a cent a pound, and either weeklies or monthlies can be sent to San Francisco and delivered at the door there at the same bulk rate of one cent a pound, or but an eighth of what it costs to deliver the monthly right here in New York. Mr. Pearson, we happen to know from many consultations with him on this subject, was most anxious to do his part to bring about a law which would be so simple as to construe itself and which would remove the many causes of difficulty between the department, the local post-offices, and the public.

At last again that useful white elephant of the publishing trade, Whitaker's "Reference Catalogue of English Literature," is to appear anew after an interval of four years, during which time it has become, in this country at least, one of the most scarce and desired of books. This issue, Mr. Whitaker writes us, is the thickest octavo in the world, weighing twelve pounds, and being eleven inches in thickness, an increase of nearly a third over its previous extraordinary dimensions. It is sold abroad to advance subscribers at absolutely less than its cost of preparation, which must be something enormous in view of the fact that the present edition is prefaced by an index to 68,000 books, and in this country at a slight advance to cover the large cost of freight and handling. It has more catalogues than ever, and will be invaluable to dealers, libraries, and lovers of books in this country. This enterprise is an outcome of our own "Trade List Annual," but the son has greatly outgrown its sire. We desire to present the thanks of the American book public to Mr. Whitaker for the very great service which he has again done in its behalf.

A CORRESPONDENT elsewhere in this issue calls upon the book-trade, especially that of New York City, to organize with a view of joining the generous movement already afoot to aid the sufferers from the recent floods in Pennsylvania. No doubt a large number of the trade have already, as individuals, contributed to this movement, yet as a body organized for the purpose possibly more could yet be done. The office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is ready to coöperate either in calling such a meeting or in forwarding to the proper authorities contributions in behalf of the book-trade.

THE BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

THE tenth annual meeting of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association was held on the evening of the 5th inst., at the rooms of George A. Leavitt & Co. There were present between eighty and one hundred members—a larger number than was ever represented before—called out no doubt by the important business to be brought before the Association. Promptly at eight o'clock Mr. Charles T. Dillingham called the meeting to order, and with a brief congratulatory address proceeded to business. The minutes of the previous meeting having been printed in the leading trade papers were adopted without reading. The Secretary, Mr. A. Geyer, then read the following report:

Mr. President and Members of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association of the United States:

Once more, friends and fellow-members of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, we have come together for our annual meeting—the tenth in the history of our organization, and in many ways the brightest and most promising of all our annual gatherings, for today our ranks are full, and many applicants are knocking at our door for admission to fellowship. To all of us who have been associated together from the beginning of this fraternal endeavor, and who have watched with interested solicitude over its fortunes and growth, it is, indeed, an hour fraught with much satisfaction. To know that we are established on a solid and enduring basis; to know that we have outgrown our own most sanguine expectations; to know that the career and management of our Association has been such as to make men seek us with the wish to cast in their lot with us, is, indeed, a gratifying reward for labor performed with singleness of purpose, and efforts prompted only by desire to benefit our fraternity. It is not too much to say that the brightest augury for the future can be drawn from our successful past. Like wise architects we have made our foundations sure; the superstructure will grow by natural accretion—well, I will not say that, quite, for Nature, though a good nurse, sometimes shows wayward moods, and although we have planted well, we must still, one and all, be faithful gardeners in this, our fraternal field.

The report, which concluded with a reference to the extension of the membership and the Reserve Fund, and an appeal to the members to renewed energy in increasing the numerical strength of the Association, was approved and heartily cheered.

The next business was deliberation upon the proposed amendments. Contrary to all expectation every single amendment was adopted, most of them without argument, a few after a brief discussion, so that after but an hour's work the meeting was ready to make the vote upon the adoption of all the amendments unanimous.

The amendments adopted were as follows:

SEC. 2. The objects of this fund, first, are : to accumulate a fund which, in cases of epidemic or general disasters, may be appropriated towards the payments of increased demands on, or additional assessments of the members ; second, to secure a prompt payment to the beneficiaries of the deceased members of the Association, of such sum as they may be entitled to.

And whenever at any regular meeting for ordering payments the number of satisfactory proofs so presented exceeds three, the Board of Trustees may, in their discretion, by a resolution, call upon the Committee of the Reserve Fund for the amount necessary to pay such death losses in excess of three. In such case, however, the Board of Trustees shall subsequently and in the same year order assessments for such death losses in excess of three, the net amount realized therefrom to be paid into the Reserve Fund, unless thereby the total number of assessments in one year would exceed twelve. Geyer, Secretary, and the Board of Trustees for their valuable services in behalf of the Association. Resolutions were also passed thanking Messrs. George A. Leavitt and C. T. Dillingham for the use of their offices, and the trade journals for courtesies extended. The meeting adjourned about half past ten o'clock.

THE PARIS INTERNATIONAL LITERARY CONGRESS.

THE Société des Gens de Lettres, acting in concert with the International Literary Association, will hold a Congress at Paris for the discussion of matters affecting authors. The opening meeting is fixed for the 20th inst., and it is expected that M. Jules Simon will preside. The following seven questions will be submitted for discussion, all of them relating to the desirability of further legislation in the interest of authors; and papers will be read on the subjects of science in contemporary literature and Russian literature in France:

Question 1.—Has the author of a literary work the exclusive right to translate it or to authorize a translation of it?

Should the author be obliged to indicate in any way on the original work that he reserves the right to translate it?

Should the author or his assignees have extended to them a specified time, whatever it may be, within which to make the translation?

Question 2.—May articles in journals or periodicals be reproduced or translated without the authority of the author?

Should he be compelled to make special mention of reservation or interdict?

Should articles of political discussion, general facts, news of the day, and telegrams be excepted?

What should be the law in regard to serial stories?

Question 3.—Should the reproduction of a literary work in a chrestomathy, anthology, or selected collection be dependent upon the previous authorization of the author?

Question 4.—Shall the Congress ask that the Berne Convention be modified on the above points?

Question 5.—Should the transforming of a novel into a drama or vice versa, without the consent of the author, constitute an illegal reproduction?

Question 6.—Should the reproduction of a literary work by means of public lectures take place without the consent of the author?

Question 7.—Is a special law required to regulate the relations between authors and publishers?

The Congrès International de la Propriété Artistique, under the presidency of M. Meissonier, will also hold a Congress at Paris to discuss a number of questions relating to the rights of an artist in his productions.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE genial "Hans Breitman" (Charles G. Leland) has just recovered from a lingering illness in Italy. He is now at work upon a series of handbooks of the minor arts and industries, which will be published by Rand, McNally & Co.

It is requested that all persons having in their possession letters from the late President of Columbia College, Frederick A. P. Barnard, send them to Professor Nicholas Murray Butler, Columbia College, New York, at their early convenience. The letters will be returned after copies have been made.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

JUST before Mr. Lowell sailed for England he put in Mr. Aldrich's hands a long poem entitled "How I Consulted the Oracle of the Goldfishes." It will appear in an early number of the Atlantic Monthly.

TRÜBNER & Co. will issue immediately the first number of a new periodical, the Periodical Press Index: "A Monthly Record of Leading Subjects in Current Literature." Mr. John S. Farmer, the compiler, has indexed about 160 different publications in the first number. There will also be issued a yearly summary volume, which will include all that is contained in the twelve monthly numbers.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A PROPOSITION TO AID THE CONEMAUGH SUFFERERS.

To the Book Publishers of New York City:

"GIVE us help," cry the stricken people of Conemaugh. "Help to bury our dead, help to heal our wounded, help to feed, clothe, and shelter the living." With a view of responding to this urgent appeal I beg to suggest that the trade call a meeting at once and appoint a party to receive donations. I will agree to devote my afternoons to canvassing the book publishers in the city with a view of obtaining their donations.

Let not the book publishing trade lag in this work of mercy. Respectfully,

HENRY S. ALLEN, Book Publisher,
6 CLINTON PLACE, N. Y. CITY.

THE OCCIDENTAL PUBLISHING CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29, 1889.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: It has come to our knowledge that irresponsible parties are using the name of Occidental Publishing Co. (under which name our subscription department is known and conducted), having orders filled for books and securing credit on the strength of it. Although we have made diligent inquiries in order to find out who is assuming this mask, we have been unable to succeed, other than to hear that the party is a German canvasser.

We ask you to mention this, that intended victims may not be duped into the belief that they are filling orders for us, as was the case recently, when a New York house addressed us inquiringly on the subject.

PAYOT, UPHAM & CO.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

D. S. KNOX has made arrangements with the Worthington Company to represent them on the road. He starts on his first trip on the 12th.

ONE of the features of the Minneapolis Industrial Exposition will be a Book-Trade Exhibit, which Mr. Charles D. Raymer, of that city, has been managing and which he hopes to make a success.

THE office of the Engineering News, N. Y. City, has issued the first annual volume of a timely and useful work entitled "The Manual of American Water-Works." It is compiled from special returns and edited by M. N. Baker.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, N. Y., will publish September 15 a series of discourses on the Epistle of St. James under the title of "The Gospel of Common-Sense," preached last year by Dr. Charles F. Deems, of the Church of the Strangers, N. Y. City.

MACMILLAN & CO. are about to publish the biography of the late Dr. W. G. Ward, by his son, to which is prefixed these new lines by Tennyson, written in memory of Dr. Ward:

"Farewell, whose living like I shall not find
—Whose faith and work were bells of full accord—
My friend, thou most unworldly of mankind,
Most generous of all Ultramontanes, Ward!
How subtle at tierce and quart of mind with mind!
How loyal in the following of thy Lord!"

FLEMING H. REVELL's announcements of fine art souvenirs in chromo-lithograph, monotint, and etchings include some little booklets that are a combination of book and easel sure to attract the attention of Christmas shoppers. "My Cabin Window, or, across the Atlantic," is in the shape of a window which, when opened, shows poems from Longfellow, Scott, Shelley, Holmes, and others, with twenty-four pages of monotint illustrations, picturing a trip from Liverpool to New York; and "The House-Boat, or, up the river," shows river scenery and text, selected from Wordsworth, Hemans, Pope, Kingsley, and others. "The Home of William Shakespeare," "With all the Riches of the Year," and "The Home of William Wordsworth" form a series, each containing five full-page etchings, printed in various tints on finest Whatman paper, and representing portraits and scenery in connection with the choicest selections from universal favorites. A text-book for the month, in monotint and chromo-lithography, will be entitled "Key-Notes for Life's Anthem;" and two charming little booklets of poems and monotints will be called "Sowing" and "Reaping." Specially designed for children are poems and texts, illustrated in monotint, put up in boxes containing six twelve-page booklets, bearing such titles as "The Sheltered Birds," "News for Little Children," "The Stray Lamb," etc. A set of "hymns," of "poems," and of "texts," each of twelve pages text and illustrations, come in boxes containing twelve each. "Messages of Good Cheer" and "Sweet Story Series" also comprise little volumes, assorted in boxes of twelve each. Dealers should not delay in sending for samples of all these novelties.

FREDERICK WARNE & CO. are making extensive preparations for the approaching fall, and call attention to a varied list of literature and novelties. "The Bedford" Shakespeare will be a charming little edition in twelve volumes, the first red-line pocket edition issued. It will contain all the plays, poems, and sonnets, with carefully revised text, a memoir, and glossary. The printing is being done in Edinburgh, and the best London binders will get up the little volumes in eight different styles of binding, ranging from quiet library-shelf style to the most elaborate gift-book binding. A handsome series of the standard poets will be known as "The Imperial Poets," and will include Milton, Wordsworth, Burns, Mrs. Hemans, Scott, Shelley, Byron, Hood, Moore, Shakespeare, and Gems of National Poetry. Every volume will have six illustrations, including portraits and landscapes, and the bindings will make the edition specially suitable for presentation. There will also be a one-volume edition of the plays, poems, and sonnets of Shakespeare, in the best type compatible with the size, a crown octavo. For young people there will be a new edition of Cooper's "Leatherstocking Tales" in five volumes; a new fine art color-book for children of "Old Mother Goose's Rhymes and Tales," with enamelled board cover; fourteen humorous studies in black and white by a son of Birket Foster, to be called "Follies, Foibles, and Fancies of Fish, Flesh, and Fowl;" "A Peep into Catland," a new picture-book; and "The Stanley Library of Stirring Incident and Adventure for Boys," four volumes by well-known writers. Children with taste for painting may be gratified by "Young America's Painting-Book," uniform with "Afternoon Tea Painting," or with the more elaborate "Palette Painting-Book," consisting of about forty pages of studies and copies, shaped like a painter's palette. It will pay dealers to examine this list before getting too much stock on hand.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY'S 1889 SCHOOL-BOOK CATALOGUE.

Thoroughly revised, very many additions. Subject classification lists added. No increase in size, except in number of pages. Author titles set in larger, broader-face type than the body of the catalogue. As these names of authors are the primary things sought for in consulting catalogue, we place them in this different, blacker-faced type, which the eye finds with little effort. This improvement alone costs us in the aggregate quite a large sum. The large number of titles to be included made it necessary, if the catalogue was to be at all complete, that it should be set solid for the body-type. This meant casting special type without "kerns," black-faced letters, which were larger horizontally, but not vertically, to enable this to be done. We thus give you one-third more titles in the same space, and yet each title more quickly discovered.

ABOUT ACCURACY. We have this year pursued a plan which will enable us to guarantee as accurate a catalogue as any ever issued. We last year kept the type standing, tied up in pages, and have ourselves retained (and have asked our various jobbing friends to do the same) an error-copy of the catalogue. From these error-copies, combined with the publishers' own corrections, which we have freely solicited and freely received, we are enabled (without undergoing the likelihood of making a new crop of errors in re-composition) to eradicate the old errors in pricing, etc., that might exist.

Further, inasmuch as this has enabled us to save the time required for new composition, we are able to delay revision until the last moment, thus incorporating the latest information.

Remember, again, this is the only catalogue with a usable, practicable, telegraphic code. This code has been planned by business men in accordance with the suggestions of many different parties and their needs, and then has been thoroughly revised and rewritten by the expert telegrapher of the Standard Oil Company, the one who compiled their telegraphic code. He has made it thoroughly usable from a telegrapher's point of view. For example, among many other features that he has introduced are the following: C and r and other point-letters are avoided wherever possible, but few letter u appear, excepting in the letter u. There will be but few letter i correspondingly, as i and e conflict telegraphically. There will be but few w and no m after the letter f; from a to f, m is used. The space-letters are avoided as much as possible, and there will be but few letter t, etc. One other point, and that is, every telegraphic word contains exactly five letters, no more and no less, thus very frequently, by this one fact alone, preventing the mistranslation of a message. The column of abbreviations for publishers' names is thrown beyond the titles, and the authors' names are thus left more conspicuous.

It is the only Pocket Catalogue that is at all complete. It has three times as many titles as any other pocket catalogue made.

It is the only catalogue, pocket or otherwise, with a cardboard cover. The careful clerk who appreciates the advantages of being able instantly to consult the catalogue, thus carried and preserved in his pocket at all hours of the day, without the delay frequently incurred in hunting up a book catalogue misplaced by some of his less painstaking confrères, appreciates this point thoroughly. It is money in his employer's pocket to do the same.

It is the only catalogue that shows sales increasing in a geometrical progression year by year, and this in despite of the fact that at first it had some imperfections which are now eliminated. The first year's sales were only fifteen thousand, the second year's forty thousand, and last year's sixty-three thousand seven hundred and fifty. This year we feel confident it will show a yet further increase, since several of our customers have told us that they should take a larger edition than they did a year ago.

PRICES:

THE BEST KEY TO EDUCATIONAL BOOKS.

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements.

THE
American Educational Catalogue
For 1889 [Twentieth Year].

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE, whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its twentieth year, claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue has recently been remade, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and it adds all new books (ready or to be ready for the fall) in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered. The Telegraphic Code will not be continued, as the code plan is reported to us to give more trouble than it saves.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00 ; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page ; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or $1.00 if plate is sent.

\ * Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.*
